

The environmental protection industry gathers in Poznań

Innovations in environmental protection, reduction of low emissions, e-mobility, closed-loop economy, as well as water and wastewater management - these are just some of the topics that will be discussed at POL-ECO-SYSTEM.

For the environmental protection industry, as well as for the municipal sector, the POL-ECO-SYSTEM trade fair is not only about getting acquainted with the latest developments in the industry or the promotion of new technologies; it is also a venue for meetings and a number of valuable events. This year, the POL-ECO-SYSTEM trade fair will be held from 23rd to 25th October.

Wide range of topics...

The POL-ECO-SYSTEM trade fair is the most important meeting spot for representatives of legislative institutions, local governments and representatives of the world of business, science and education, directly related to the environmental protection and municipal economy sectors. The list of honorary guests includes representatives of both domestic and foreign government delegations. The exhibition is composed of production and service companies operating within such sectors as recycling, waste, renewable energy sources, revitalization and reclamation, water and sewage management, air protection, i.e. those offering services dedicated to local governments. A comprehensive offer, which exhibitors from Poland and abroad will be showcasing in Poznań, includes an overview of the latest ecological trends, knowledge about energy efficiency and technological novelties for each branch of the industry, as well as solutions in the field of adaptation to climate change.

... and substantive events

Numerous conferences prove that POL-ECO-SYSTEM is an important place to meet and listen to the voices from within the industry. This year the event will again cover plenty of topics that the industry is mostly concerned about. Following the success of the previous edition, the Ministry of the Environment and the National Fund for Environmental Protection and Water Management will for the second time arrange conferences on the current national policy in the field of environmental protection within the framework of the "Eco-sphere". The POL-ECO-SYSTEM trade fair will feature trainings for the beneficiaries of current programs of the National Fund for Environmental Protection and Water Management. The Fund will also propose new programs for the environmental sector, whereas foreign exhibitors will organize numerous workshops and business meetings at their stands.

"POL-ECO-SYSTEM trade fair is a mandatory event for all persons interested in the environmental protection, sustainable development and municipal services sectors," points Paulina Pietrzak, Director of POL-ECO-SYSTEM.
